DESCRIPTION:

Jim Meier, The Championship Thinking Coach, developed the Championship Thinking course in 1991 and has been presenting the course nationally for the past two decades. Through the teaching and guidance of 25 core concepts, Championship Thinking allows individuals to learn proven mental skills. Participants learn to apply leading research in recognized philosophical, sociological and psychological theories. Championship Thinking guides individuals to be more successful, confident and happy in the areas of life that matter most to them. In short, Championship Thinking creates Championship Doers.

CORE TOPICS

- 25 mental tools for success (delivered in 14 segments)
- How the mind works for and against us
- Four essential components of excellence
- Four logical steps in the improvement cycle
- The change model for moving from where you are to where you want to be

WHY ATTEND?

Participants will be able to and want to:

- Consistently think positively and powerfully
- Set and achieve high goals which are personally meaningful
- Function in a “want to” vs. a “have to” motivation and attitude
- Perform at higher levels of confidence, responsibility, achievement and satisfaction
- Use their creative energy to bring about positive outcomes in all aspects of their life
- Be more innovative, responsive and adaptive to rapid change
